The photo above is the 402 4th Avenue House. Notice that some work on the outside is needed in order to put it back into good shape again.

This house is the 402 4th Avenue South-West House. The year this house was built was 1918. The address of this house is 402 4th Avenue S. W. The home was built as a home for someone to live in. This house was built as a private residence.

This house is currently painted white. The house is boarded up and in need of extensive repair. The metal roof is rusty and the rest of the house needs a new paint job. It is surrounded by a variety of trees but the yard is in need of maintenance.

The house is surrounded by different kinds of trees. There are many houses around this historic home but I just can't see them because there are overgrown trees blocking those houses.

Right now it's not being used for anything because it's all bored up and falling apart.

The reason this is so important to save historic houses is because they keep us in touch with our past community.

Some of the outstanding features is that the structure is two stories and the house has a metal roof.

It is so important to save and to preserve it because it's a part of Ruskin history and we want to save Ruskin history. I have seen other historic homes in Ruskin and this house can be just as beautiful as they are. I would like to see many more historic Ruskin homes. Thank you for reading this article on historic Ruskin homes.
